The origins of exception

The Sotogrande lifestyle began back in the 1960s, when Joseph McMicking first laid eyes on this incredible natural setting. It inspired him to come up with a whole new vision for urban design, aimed at offering an active, outdoor lifestyle to the era's elite. Promising more space, premier sporting experiences (with a choice of world-class golf and polo clubs and a modern, elegant marina) and a wealth of opportunities for culture and leisure, McMicking's plans were the epitome of laid-back luxury.

This extraordinary vision can be seen today in ACCIONA's exclusive Espacios de vida, brought to life by some of the world's most renowned architects and landscape designers. Homes inspired by the simple elegance of the Spanish country home, the restorative sanctuary of Andalusian gardens and the luminous, convivial urbanism of the traditional Cadiz village.
